

26/10/62

P.S

My dear Ate,

This is a short note from your humble servant and loving son Masauko to congratulate you upon your victory in Lilongwe North. A bye-election is a test of the continuing popularity of a ruling party and its leader.

You gave a clear and open challenge to your foes; you did not interfere in their participation in the voting. You have come out victorious; they have come out humiliated and disgraced.

No one can now doubt your strength in Nyasaland and all who think of fighting you are playing with fire.

You cannot have gone to London in better circumstances. Your voice will be stronger than ever.

Destiny and our own efforts have conspired together against our foes.

Bon Voyage,

Ever your loyal servant,
Masauko.