Dear Sir

My Son F. E. Bowser informs me he has been troubled the passed four or five weeks with dull heavy headache whether he has said anything to you about it or not he ~~has~~ does not say He has I think over taxed his mental faculties the result of which is the trouble complained of, and now they object in writing to you is to have you if you please to investigate his condition and if the dull heavy headache he complains of is caused by over study that you advise him to come home and rest a while and also if you do not think it advisable, I was once compelled to take ^{him} out of school here for the same cause. It seems he is not able to stand as much mental labor as some boys of his appearance and build, although there is but few boys apply themselves to study as close as he did in school here, and I think he is doing the same at Bloomington yours with Respect
