My Dear Doctor: On Saturday last, after writing your letter, I received a note from the parties of whom,
I had supposed, the books I mentioned had been purchased. In the note I was told that a proposition I had made in relation to the books would not be accepted.

Therefore if your own will of the mind you was where you wrote me I will not negotiate further but will adopt your suggestion.
Please write me.
Yours truly J. G. New Kirk.
