

The Indiana University,

Bloomington.

June 4, 1890.

To the Board of Trustees of the Indiana University.

Gentlemen:

I hereby offer my resignation of the professorship of Economics and Social Science. In so doing, I wish to express my full recognition of the kindness and generosity, as regards my requests for aid in carrying on my work, with which I have been treated, and my appreciation of the honor done me at your last meeting in electing me to this position.

The last year has, for me, been one of the pleasanter and most profitable of my life as a teacher. I resign only because I think that my work in the future can be made to count for more if I accept the position offered me at Michigan University.

Respectfully,

Jeremiah W. Jenks.

Jinks. Resigns.
