

Sav.

To the President of Indiana University,
Sir:

I beg leave to report that the following are the subjects in which I have given instruction during the past year, the number of hours devoted to each subject, and the number of students in each class:

Subject	No. of Hrs. per week	No. of Students
Ecclesiastical Jurisdiction -	5	8
Real Property	5	7
Corporations	5	13
Elementary Law	3	22
Constitutional Law	2	20
Personal Property	4	29
International Law	2	29
Domestic Relations	4	29

The work has been partly by text-book, partly by lectures, and partly by a study of cases. In addition, there has been a reasonable amount of time devoted to arguments in most court.

The most pressing need of the Law School, both for students and for professors, is a larger and more complete library. It should be our aim to lift the work of the school above the teaching of merely local and provincial law, and to make it fairly representative of the best English and American jurisprudence. To accomplish this we require complete sets of the English and American Reports and a full line of the best text-books. Until these are within reach we can neither send students to the original sources of the law, nor, on the other hand, can the professors make those researches necessary to the best instruction or to the preparation of articles or books which shall give us a wider reputation with the profession at large. I would respectfully urge, therefore, that the very largest appropriation possible be made for the increase of our library facilities.

My class-room has been filled during the present term almost to the limits of its capacity. Should there be any considerable increase in attendance next year, it would be necessary to consider the question of larger accommodations. It is difficult to see what rooms can be made available without endangering the safety of the library, and it would seem that the question of a Law School Building must very soon engage the attention of the Trustees.

The prospects of the Law School seem to me to be very promising. With ample accommodations and with adequate library facilities, I can perceive no reason why it should not speedily rank among the best in the country and prove of great service to sound legal education in the State and Nation.

Respectfully submitted,

Er. Shaffert

Professor of Law.

June 11, 1891.

Report

Department of Law

Entomologist

Professor.

June 1891

Salary $1,000.