

B. Oxford 23^d Aug 1828

Dear Sir,

Yours of the 19th, and mailed on the 20th has arrived in the astonishingly short ~~time~~ ^{space} of 3 days - I recd. it about noon to day.

I well recollect the substance of the conversation between yourself and Gen^l

Jackson - Had I been called on for a statement of it previously to having seen

Yours I should certainly have given in substance what you have ~~stated~~ ^{related}. In your letter to Mr McGuffin there is not only a fair statement of the substance of what the Gen^l expressed but in almost the very terms he used except that where his ~~used~~ grammar was incorrect you have made him talk correct

English -

Of this I am the more certain ^{from the circumstance that} ~~some~~ ^{some} of the phrases which the Hero used on that occasion were bandied about amongst the boys for days and even weeks after this was it as a subject of rivalry by the friends of Mr. Cloy against the ~~scholars~~ ^{scholar} at college - The phrases were such as "phimantous" "Bather of like character - Of this friend Scott and others have probably as destined a recollection as I have.

I have nothing to write more than was written in my last which you will have read in this —

Dr Bishop has, I have since discovered his eye upon Mr Scott — from some articles published in an early No of the Register —

Please write me immediately on that subject. I think I am prepared to say to you do not stay in Nottingham. I have taken some pains and possess some means of knowing the feeling of some people there and believe that they will be irascible and resent men who though too contemptible to injure your peace or reputation may impede in a good degree your usefulness. I fear lest my solicitude may betray me into impetuosity.
You, however know my heart in this matter — I would not suffer I think anything but the most sincere wish for that which you most desire (duty and enjoyment consistently with it) to give utterance to any thing either in the form of advice or request. But I cannot help regretting that you should be settled amongst the mean and ingenuous

Mr Holmes has sent me a copy of your 4 July sermon I have not yet read it — Mrs Mc Crippes

I have not yet read it—

Ms Mc Cuffes

Health is better - improving fast - she wishes to be remembered to Mrs M and your self also she and Miss Sperry - to Mrs Putney and Miss Catherine Putney - adieu W. H. Guffey

be remembered to Mrs M and your self also

She and Miss Sperry - to Mrs. Putney and

Miss Catherine Britton — adum

Mr. H. Gaffney

Rev A. A. Phelps —

August 24

Alford

Dear Sir - I have advised acceptance of your order - and am waiting for

Yours
J. S.

Rev. St. Mylic St.

Washington
Dc

