VAMP.

I'm going to pack my trunk and leave this If you should ev - er get there you would place to day — I can't see a - ny rea - son why side with me — That Kok - o - mo and hoo - sier towns are

I should stay — A Rub - en's life is sim - ple and its grand (to see) — They don't have a - ny Wall street or sky plain to see — That is the on - ly thing that will a - scrap - ers there Nor mer - ry wid - ow hats a flash - ing gree with me — No doubt they have their good times in large in the air — And eve - ry fel - low has a good time ci - ties too But when I strike the ci - ty oh I get so blue I there all right To see these coun - try lov - ers why it is a sight Barn like to strike a burg where a - ny one aint gay — dan - ces and their ov - er - alls are in full sway —

where the fash - ions ev - 'ry bod - y don't dis - play. —
Just to think this place one hun - dred miles a - way. —

CHORUS.

p-f
I'm going to take the train right back to Ko - ko - mo — For that's the on - ly place for com - mon folks to go — And when I real - ly get there I will plain - ly see; For it's the on - ly rest - ful spot on earth_ for me_ Be - lieve me when I say I'll set - tle there for life_ And strike some Ru - ben's daugh - ter to be - come my wife I want to get some place where eve - ry - thing is slow

Back to In - di - a - na to old Ko - ko - mo I'm Ko - ko - mo

An optical slant at the following terrific Song Hits published by the Thompson Music Co.

[the tuneful house]

"I Wish I Had a Girl,"

by Kahn & LeBoy. Sung and played in every nook and corner. The greatest "Sentimentally loquacious novelty" published in years. This song has that psychological something—you must hear it to find out.

"Base-Ball,"

Lewis & Brown's great characteristic number. Distinctly individual—a musical and poetical diagnosis of the National game. Brown's music means original melody, and he wrote this one.

"Will You Always Call Me Honey,"

by Kahn & LeBoy. A new ballad, but different from the rest. A reminiscent lyric given a beautiful and harmonious setting. The success of a song is in a modus operandi of the melody, and this song has the proper ingredients.

"In The Good Old United States," by Lewis & Mincer. A stirring march song with a tinge of patriotism. Not a superfluous "give us your kind applause" song; just a genuine Yankee march hit.
