The Dean Says

It is always a pleasure to send greetings and invitations to the ever-growing list of alumni of the School of Law.

We are finishing another successful year of operation and are looking forward to meeting those of you who can return to the Bloomington campus at Commencement time and attend the annual alumni banquet. I hope that all of you who are in a position to do so will plan to be here so that you can see for yourself what we are trying to do in Bloomington, as you will have the opportunity next fall at the annual banquet in Indianapolis to see what we are doing at our Indianapolis Division.

Please accept my sincere greetings and invitation to renew your contact with the School of Law.

Leon H. Wallace
Dean

Law President Speaks

FELLOW LAW ALUMNI:

It has been a pleasure and an honor to serve as President of the Indiana University Law Alumni Association during the past year. I feel we have had a very successful year with wonderful attendance and response to our very fine winter meeting in Indianapolis last December, and I would like to urge that all of you attend our annual meeting to be held on the Indiana University campus on June 5th. We are working on a program now which we feel will be worthwhile and in addition will pay deserved tribute to Dean Henry Witham who is retiring as associate dean of the Indianapolis Division.

As retiring President, I appreciate this opportunity to make one last parting observation and request. I feel that all of us who are graduates of Indiana University School of Law owe more to its continuing success than we are prone to give. This is perhaps understandable in view of the pressures and demands upon our time which seem naturally to follow the profession in which we are engaged. I am sure that, regardless of this fact, if each of us will pause for a moment and weigh the debt we owe to our Law School for the benefits we have received, we can find more time to make some worthwhile contributions to our Law Alumni Association and the future welfare of our Law School.

Ruel W. Steele, President
Law Alumni Association

F.T.C. Chairman to Address Alumni Banquet June 5

Earl W. Kintner, '38, Chairman of the Federal Trade Commission will address the Law Alumni Banquet in the Georgian Room of the Union Building at 5:30 p.m. CDT on Sunday, June 5. Following his graduation from the law school in 1938 Mr. Kintner practiced law in his home town of Princeton until he entered the service in 1944. In 1948, after discharge from the Navy, Mr. Kintner became a trial attorney for the Commission. Three years later he was named legal adviser and in 1953 was promoted to the office of General Counsel. His appointment as Chairman of the Commission was made on June 11, 1959.

EARL W. KINTNER

Honored guests at the banquet will be members of the graduating class and their wives. Also to be honored on this occasion is Henry Bryan Witham, Associate Dean of the School of Law in charge of the Indianapolis Division who retires as associate dean at the close of the present academic year.

Reservations for the banquet as well as other Commencement Week-end activities may be made with the Alumni Office, Box 279, Bloomington.

Meeting Attracts Lawyers from Across the State

Many of Indiana's top labor lawyers were on hand for the Afternoon Forum of the Law Alumni Meeting held at the Indianapolis Division, December 4, 1959. Five labor experts comprised the panel which discussed the Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act of 1959. Mr. F. Robert Volger, presently with the Rex Manufacturing Division of the Philco Corporation, formerly with the NLRB, served as moderator. Panel members included well-known Indianapolis attorneys Edward J. Fillenwarth, '44, Lynnville G. Miles, Alan T. Nolan, and William E. Roberts.

Provisions of selected sections of the Act were discussed, first from the viewpoint of labor and then from that of management. Periods for questions and answers followed each panelist's presentation thus providing opportunities for discussion on areas of uncertainty.

The response was most enthusiastic, those who attended expressed great satisfaction over the educational value of the program.

Banquet Features English Pathologist

Nearly two hundred persons attended the Annual Banquet at the Claypool Hotel which featured one of England's leading pathologists, Dr. Francis Camps. Dr. Camps told of his work with Scotland Yard on some of its toughest cases, the most intriguing of which was the famous Christie multiple-murder case. He illustrated his lecture with slides showing the investigative process used in solving the Christie case.

PLACEMENT SERVICES AVAILABLE

The placement services of the School of Law are available to alumni and students alike. Because law firms and other employers of law graduates frequently make inquiries concerning the availability of experienced attorneys, graduates are encouraged to advise the law school of any desire to change their positions or locations.

LAW DAY DIGNITARIES—From left, David Richey, Phi Delta Phi award to the Indianapolis Division's outstanding senior; Prof. William W. Oliver, Gavel Award; Robert F. Kennedy, chief counsel for Senate Labor Rackets Committee and banquet speaker; W. Bruce Gillis Jr., the outstanding member of Law Journal staff from Indianapolis Division; John M. Rhoads, Indianapolis Law Club senior award; Chad Songer, Bloomington Student Bar Association President and banquet toastmaster; and Birch E. Bayh Jr. Bloomington Division's Phi Delta Phi outstanding senior award.

Third Annual Law Day Observance Held April 28

KENNEDY BANQUET SPEAKER

Robert Kennedy, former Chief Counsel for the Senate Labor Rackets Committee cited public apathy as one of the causes for the corruption uncovered during the recent labor-management investigations.

He described the legislation passed by the last Congress, noting that while the law is not perfect, it is a definite step in the right direction.

He cited numerous examples of mismanagement of union funds and stated that in many cases union funds have been used for personal gain. Dave Beck, ex-president of the economically powerful Teamsters' Union, used some $300,000 for this purpose.

Kennedy said that unions were not alone to blame. He cited many cases of corruption in management—"sweetheart contracts," under-the-table deals, etc.

Over three hundred persons heard the address following the Law Day banquet which took place in Alumni Hall.

News of the Law Journal

The members of the Board of Editors of the Indiana Law Journal during the past year have been Vern Partenheimer, Editor in Chief; Richard D. Wagner, Article and Book Review Editor; Robert D. Ready, James R. McClarnon, Robert E. Highfield, and Birch E. Bayh, Jr., Note Editors; and Clarence H. Doninger, Article Research Associate. Associate editors at the Indianapolis Division have been Bruce Gillis, Jr., Editor; Keith Leach and Robert Voss, Note Editor. The Board of Editors for 1960-61 will be announced during the latter part of May.

BLOOMINGTON DIVISION PREVAILS IN MOOT COURT ARGUMENT

The Bloomington Division won the annual Law Day Inter-Divisional Moot Court competition. Robert D. Ready and Richard N. Smith of the Bloomington Division argued the appellee's position; James Kelley and Max Reed of the Indianapolis Division argued for the appellant.

The question concerned the liability of a bank to the beneficiary of an insurance policy for loss resulting from its failure to pay the premiums due under the policy in accordance with its agreement with the deceased insured, a depositor at the bank.

The special court for the occasion consisted of William E. Steckler, Chief Judge, United States District Court, Southern District of Indiana; Willis Hickam, Spencer attorney and President of the I.U. Board of Trustees; and James A. Emmert, former Justice of the Indiana Supreme Court, presently an attorney in Shelbyville.

Journal was transferred from the Indiana Bar Association to the Trustees of Indiana University and the School of Law became solely responsible for its financial management. Response from the legal profession by way of gifts and subscriptions has been most encouraging and the Board of Editors on behalf of the School of Law and the University wishes to express deepest appreciation to the many friends and alumni who have contributed to our support.

The current yearly subscription price of the Journal is $5. Orders and inquiries should be directed to Miss Ann McClure, Business Manager, Indiana Law Journal, Box G, Bloomington, Indiana.

Seniors Name Oliver Gavel Award Winner

William White Oliver, associate professor of law, received a special vote of confidence from the Bloomington Division seniors who chose him as the 1960 recipient of the Gavel Award.

Given annually on Law Day to the non-student who makes the most outstanding contribution to the School of Law, the Gavel Award is one of the most cherished honors bestowed by the Law School.

Professor Oliver received the A.B. degree in 1946 from the University of Kentucky, and the J.D. three years later at Northwestern University.

He served as trial attorney for the Bureau of Internal Revenue and successive one-year terms as law clerk for the late Chief Justice Fred Vinson and Chief Justice Earl Warren before joining the I.U. law faculty in 1954 as an assistant professor.

Scholastic honors held by Mr. Oliver include the Lowden-Wigmore Prize from the Northwestern University School of Law, membership in the Order of the Coif, and Phi Beta Kappa.

Previous Gavel Award recipients include John S. Hastings in 1948 and in the following years, C. Ben Dutton, Jr., Bernard Gavitt, Alfred Evens, Miss Margaret Greene, Jerome Hall, Frank E. Horack, Jr., Leon Wallace, Herman Krannert, Miss Betty LeBus, Austin V. Clifford, and Ivan C. Rutledge.

Bauman Leaving I.U. Will Teach at U.C.L.A.

Professor John Bauman is leaving us to teach at the law school of the University of California at Los Angeles. Those of us — colleagues, students, friends — who were at the Law Day Banquet have already shown our affection and regard for Mary and John Bauman. I welcome this opportunity to express similar sentiments to an even wider circle of his admirers.

Since coming here in 1954 from the University of New Mexico, Professor Bauman has taught Creditors' Rights, Judicial Remedies, and Civil Procedure, and has been an adviser to the Law Journal. I know from many hours of discussion how thorough and penetrating is his mastery of these subjects; I know from the enthusiastic comments of his students what a stimulating impact he had on them. His scholarly writing was clear, direct, and cogent. To the management of the Law Review he contributed his patience and wisdom.

His colleagues and students will miss his brisk walk, his quiet humor, the give-and-take of conversation with him. We all wish him well in his new position, and look forward to frequent reunions.

Indianapolis Division Faculty News Briefs

Dean Henry B. Witham will retire as Associate Dean of the Indianapolis Division in June, 1960 and is anticipating his return to the duties of teaching only after almost 30 years of the combined task as teacher-administrator. He is also looking forward to a sabbatical leave in September with tentative thoughts pointing toward London, England.

Professor Cleon H. Foust, has completed his 3rd revision materials on Wrongs and had published in the Fall Issue, 1959, Indiana Law Journal, The Use of Criminal Law as a Standard of Civil Responsibility in Indiana. He is a member of the following committees—Improvement of Criminal Procedure, Indiana State Bar Association, fourth consecutive year; Legal Aid Clinics, Association of American Law Schools, and a member of the Joint Committee on Scholarships in Occupational Therapy, representing the James Whitcomb Riley Foundation. He also adds the following speeches, symposias, etc. during the past year: State Prosecutor's Convention, Wabash College Career's Day, Special Librarian's Association and the School for Chemical Tests for Intoxication operated by Department of Toxicology in Cooperation with the Indiana State Police.

Professor John S. Grimes has published a work on the Law of Surveying and Boundaries, Bobbs-Merrill, based on Clark on Surveying. Also, he has published seven volumes of a projected eighteen volume revision of Thompson on Real Property, Bobbs-Merrill, and has published biennial supplements to his revision of Henry's Indiana Probate Law and to Thompson on Real Property. He was appointed by Governor Handley of Indiana as a member of the Indiana Judicial Council and is also acting as legal consultant to the Legislative Committee engaged in the study of revision of property, probate and corporation laws.

Professor R. Bruce Townsend currently is in charge as curriculum adviser of all students at time of registration. He also heads the Future Plans Committee stressing the urgent need of Library and Classroom space.

Mrs. Florence R. McMaster, Librarian, is Co-Chairman of the Institute on Channel of Communications sponsored by the Indiana Chapter of Special Library Association and the Division of Library Science of Indiana University. Mrs. McMaster is a committee member of the American Association of Law Libraries on the Application of Mechanical and Scientific Devices to Legal Literature. She has also been elected as a member of the Publicity Committee of the American Association of Law Libraries.

Witham Retires as Associate Dean After 16 Years

After Monday, June 6—Commencement Day—one of the University's best teachers will return to the full time teaching fold. For Henry Bryan Witham, it will mark the close of thirty years in University Administration, a little more than half of it spent in the capacity of Associate Dean of the School of Law, in charge of the Indianapolis Division. But it will mean more than that to Dean Witham; it will mean that he can get back to his beloved classroom, to his students and to a somewhat more leisurely life as a Professor of Law in the School he has served so well for the past sixteen years.

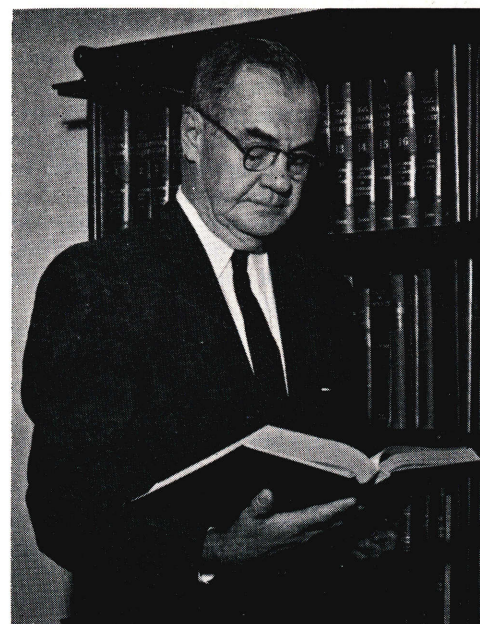

Born in Orient, Iowa, of pioneer stock in 1894, Dean Witham has maintained, throughout his life an active interest both in teaching and in the law. During his youth he sampled of teaching in the high schools of Iowa and Kansas, served at different times as a Principal and as a Superintendent. Then law claimed his interest and, graduating from the State University of Iowa in 1925 with its J.D. degree, he embarked on a career in the practice, but returned shortly to teaching, this time law teaching, where he has remained.

Dean Witham joined the staff of the Law College of the University of Tennessee as an Assistant Professor and Secretary to the Law Faculty in 1926. Two years later, he jumped the rank of Associate Professor to become a full Professor and Secretary to the Faculty, in 1928. Two years later, he became Acting Dean, and in 1933 was named Dean of the College of Law, where he served until he joined I.U. in 1944 to head the then new Indianapolis Division of the Law School.

When he came to Indiana in the fall of 1944, he came to accept a challenge, a challenge to fulfill the desperate need for part time legal education in the post-war Mid-west. Men whose education and careers had been interrupted, some quite cruelly, by war were returning from service with high ambition, but almost overwhelming responsibilities. Indiana University was among the first institutions of higher education to recognize both its duty and its opportunity to help in this respect, and the establishing of the Indianapolis Division of the Law School, representing a merger with the older private Benjamin ing and Practice. He was a panel member appearing with the four Indiana Federal District Judges which discussed Federal Jurisdiction and Procedure at the February '59 Indiana Bar Association meeting. He has furthered his writing career—Arraignment in Federal Criminal Procedure, 20 Louisiana Lawyer 1, December, 1959; Pleas in Federal Criminal Procedure, 35 Notre Dame Lawyer 1, December, 1959, and Scandinavian Health Insurance Legislation, 12 South Carolina Law Quarterly, 202-344, March, 1960.

HENRY B. WITHAM

Harrison Law School and the Indiana Law School, was one of its first steps.

Building a successful law school operation is not an easy task; yet that was the task Dean Witham was asked to accept and which he has accomplished so well in his tenure as Associate Dean. Working with Dean Gavitt and later with Dean Wallace, he built a Faculty; he built a Library; he built an efficient administration. But more than anything, he built, along with the Faculty and the facilities which the University provided, a great student body and a great alumni body. Dean Witham can count, among his "boys" of the past sixteen years, quite a number of judges, legislators, business leaders, a great host of lawyers, big lawyers, all the way to a partner on Wall Street, to little lawyers, serving rural Indiana in vital county seat practice. He can even count a few who have followed in his own profession and have become law teachers. All are his friends.

Henry B. Witham can count many blessings. He has seen his Division of the Law School operation mature into a potent force in all the affairs of the State. He has seen all three of his children, Barbara, Henry Jr. and Peter Martin, or Marty, proceed through I.U., Marty going on through to a J.D. degree.

What will he do now? He will teach. He will become, once again, after thirty years, a law teacher, a man who can have fun in the classroom, find time to think and to write, and to enjoy more time at home, with his lovely Elsa, with no more cares about budget, admission policy, gripes of the Faculty and the myriad other components of drudgery that go with deaning.

Welcome back, Henry.

Legal Career Talks Started at Bloomington

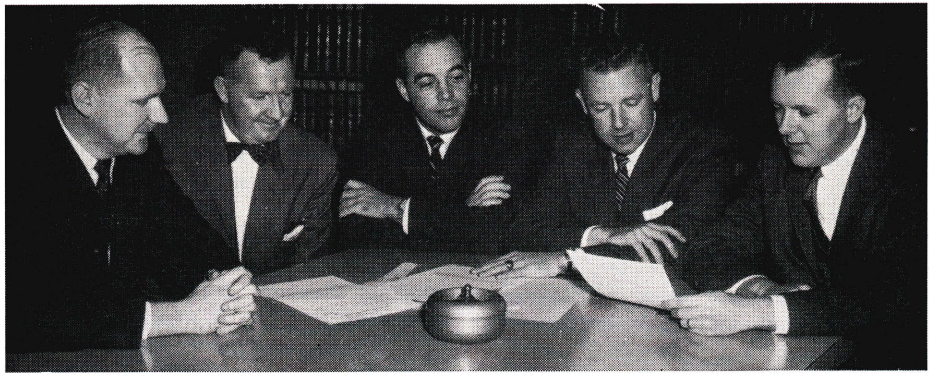

A unique program designed to familiarize law students with various opportunities awaiting them upon graduation was presented at the Bloomington Division in December, 1959. Originally conceived by Mr. Donald G. Sutherland, '54, the Conference was sponsored jointly by the Young Lawyers Section of the Indiana State Bar Association and the Placement Office of the School of Law.

The Conference consisted of two panel discussions featuring young attorneys (not too far removed from law school) presently engaged in various types of legal work. Represented were law firms large, medium, and small located in cities large (Indianapolis), medium (Evansville), and small (Boonville). A corporate staff attorney, a bank trust officer, and a lawyer-politician were also included on the program.

Each participant followed an outline which called for a general description of the type of practice including the general nature of firm's clients; specific description of the work done by the speaker, such as research, investigation, trial preparation, etc., and hours worked; social contacts with other members of the firm and clients; compensation expected; and initial investment needed.

Question and answer periods followed each discussion, and students received tips on how to land a job, how to get started on one's own, etc.

Conference participants are identified in the pictures to the right.

Law Alumni Hold Gala Reception During Bar Meeting

The Demon's Den of the French Lick Hotel was a friendly place during the I.U. Law Alumni Reception held on Friday, September 25 during the State Bar Association meeting. About 150 alumni and friends gathered to exchange greetings and renew old friendships.

For their part in helping create the gay mood, alumni officers are grateful to Mr. Howard Bates and the Law Division of the Bobbs-Merrill Company of Indianapolis which provided refreshments.

Everyone agreed that this should be an annual affair. Plans are now underway for a similar gathering at the annual meeting, to be held at French Lick September 22-24. Hope to see you there.

POTTS U.S. ASSISTANT ATTORNEY

Philip Potts, '59, of South Bend was named Assistant U.S. Attorney for the Northern District of Indiana. Prior to his appointment, he had been associated in the practice of law with his father, J. Clifford Potts, in South Bend.

Alumni Sponsors I.U. Teams in National Moot Court Meet at Chicago

The Indiana University School of Law was well represented at the Region Nine competition held in Chicago last November thanks in part to the financial support of the Law Alumni Association. The Indianapolis Division sent two teams, one consisting of Robert Mace, David Richey, and Daniel Rudy arguing the side of petitioner; the other consisted of James J. Breen, Jr., Marvin E. Clanin, and Thaddeus R. Spurgeon arguing for the respondent. The Bloomington Division sent one team which included Jack King, William Marshall, and James Dowling. The Bloomington team argued for the respondent.

Although none of our teams reached the final rounds, faculty advisers Charles Kelso of the Indianapolis Division and Alfred Meyer of the Bloomington Division were pleased with the showings made by our participants and feel that much was learned which will be helpful in future competitions.

The participants were most grateful to the Law Alumni Association for helping to

Each Division Has Active Law Wives Club

A few years ago the number of married law students became large enough to warrant the founding of a Law Wives' Club at each division of the law school.

Organized primarily for fellowship purposes, both groups have discovered opportunities for service which benefit both their divisions of the school and their communities. The Bloomington club furnishes hostesses and frequently baked goods for the numerous receptions held at the school throughout the year. This year the Indianapolis group raised money to give the student body a much needed bulletin board. Both groups share with the needy at Christmas with gifts of food, clothing, and toys. For the past year the Indianapolis Club also has provided home-baked cookies for the children's ward at Larue D. Carter Hospital.

Sincerely interested in their husbands' futures, the groups hold regular meetings with programs designed to make them better lawyer's wives. Talks on home planning and management, charm, child care, etc. have been presented.

Bloomington Division Student Bar Reports Year's Activities

The Student Bar Association, formerly the Law Club, under the guidance of Chad Songer, President; John Morrison, vice president; Eugene Pride, treasurer; Bob Shula, secretary; Lloyd Milliken, Senior Representative, and Marty Flynn and Mike Regan, Freshman Representatives, sponsored a variety of events during the past year.

Social events included the traditional fall stag party at the Policemen's Lodge, and the Spring and Fall Dances at the New Armory.

The coffee hours, inaugurated last year, were continued. Fred Witney, Labor Economics professor, Jost Delbruck, German student enrolled in the I.U. School of law, and Brent Bozell, Washington editor of National Review, were guest speakers.

On Homecoming morning, the Laws lost a muddy hard fought football game to the Medics, who are now in Indianapolis. In the afternoon, the Laws made the annual Law Walk, with canes and derbies, to the football game.

Intramural athletic teams in football, basketball, and softball, were sponsored.

The highlight of the year's activities was Law Day, described elsewhere in this issue.

Officers for next year are, John Morrison, president; Art Pamas, vice president; Pete Obremsky, treasurer; Jerry Moss, secretary; and Jack King, Senior Representative.

Fraternities Keep Busy With Luncheons, Smokers, Receptions

PHI DELTA PHI

Banta Senate of Delta Theta Phi has enjoyed another banner year! The highlights of the year include a reception before each of the two law dances, two informal parties at the policemen's lodge, and our annual rush smoker. Our rush efforts culminated in the pledging of 23 men, which is our largest pledge class in recent years.

The elected officers of Delta Theta Phi for 1960 are: Gene McGarvey, Dean; Bill Eichhorn, Vice Dean; Mike McCray, Clerk of the Rolls; Jack Scott, Clerk of the Exchange; Gordon Emery, Tribune; Barry Smith, Master of the Ritual; Dave Stevens, Bailiff.

Phi Delta Phi's year's activities have been varied in an effort to make a definite contribution to the law school calendar. The program began with a fall stag party.

General Practice Attracts Bloomington Grads Some Will Enter Corporations, Government, Service

As in prior years graduates of the present class will venture into a variety of jobs following Commencement. While most seniors will seek their fortunes in the general practice of law, some will join corporations or enter government service. A substantial number of seniors will defer any final decision until fulfilling their service obligations ranging from six months to three years. And as the I-Witness goes to press there are several good men "still looking."

Entering Law Firms

Birch Bayh, Jr. will return to his home town of Terre Haute where he will be with Marshall, Batman & Day.

James B. Capehart will join Bingham Summers & Spilman in Indianapolis.

Ned R. Carnall is returning to Bluffton where he will be with Gallivan and Hamilton.

Lee J. Chistakis is returning to his home, Gary, where he will work for Mason and Bell.

Richard English is going to Liberty where he will be associated with James S. Shepard.

Robert Highfield is joining the Indianapolis firm where he clerked last summer, Barnes, Hickam, Pantzer & Boyd.

James R. McClarnon will be in Indianapolis with the firm Thompson, O'Neal and Smith.

Ted S. Miller is going to Huntington where he will be associated with William S. Gordon.

Fred G. Osborn is joining Bolinger and Zirkle in Kokomo, his home town.

Robert D. Ready is moving to Chicago where he will be associated with the firm Pope & Ballard.

Richard W. Sand is from Warsaw and will return there to join Rockhill, Vanderveer, Kennedy and Lee.

Chad Songer is moving to Evansville. There he will be associated with Iglehart and Hewins.

Clifford E. Stoner will carry our ban-

Monthly luncheons were held at the Union Building at which speakers from other departments of the University gave informal lectures on various subjects. Outstanding among these speakers were Dr. Henry Veatch of the philosophy department, Branch McCracken, head basketball coach, and Dr. Joseph Sutton, government department analyst of Far Eastern politics. Phi Delta Phi held a reception before the fall and spring law club dances.

At the annual Law Day banquet, Phi Delta Phi presented a scroll of acknowledgement for his contributions to the school to Professor John Bauman, who is leaving the faculty at the close of the summer session.

Ned R. Carnall

ner to Rockford, Illinois where he will join Pedderson, Minzimer and Conde.

Richard D. Wagner is from Indianapolis and will return there to join Bushmann, Krieg, DeVault and Alexander.

Several to Join Fathers in Practice

A number of seniors spent little time looking for a job—they are sons of lawyers and will join their fathers upon graduation.

George Beamer, Jr. will be in South Bend with Crumpacker, May, Beamer, Levy and Searer.

Phillip W. Brown will be in Shelbyville with Brunner, Brown and Brunner.

E. Richard Johnson will locate with his father's firm in Peoria, Illinois.

Donald L. Porter expects to practice law and work with his father in the latter's title and abstract business in LaPorte.

Robert O. Williams will join his father, Ward S. Williams, in Covington.

Two in "Last of a Vanishing Breed"

Two members of the class are hanging out their own shingles. Bruce A. Beihl will return to his home town of Batesville and Richard N. Smith will begin practice in Brookville, his home town.

Two Entering Patent Work

Two members of the group finishing in February had engineering backgrounds and are now working in patent law. Jerry E. Hyland is with the Collins Radio Company, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Robert H. Johnson is with the Clark Equipment Company of Buchanan, Michigan.

With the University

William J. Marshall will remain with the Law School as a teaching associate in the Legal Techniques Program.

Entering Government Service

David A. Willis finished his work in February and is now a Deputy Attorney General for the State of Indiana.

William S. Dalton also will join the Attorney General's office upon graduation.

Alumni Honored at Football Open Houses

Two alumni "Open Houses" were held at the new law building in Bloomington during home football games last fall. The first took place Homecoming Weekend November 14. Several couples had arranged in advance to meet friends at the law building in the morning and were pleased to find cider, doughnuts and, especially welcome, hot coffee awaiting them that crisp fall day.

The game was thrilling (I.U. trounced Michigan 21-6) but cold weather "froze out" some of the wives. Miss LeBus kept the coffee boiling and the doughnuts rolling during the second half, enabling many of the lawyers' ladies to thaw out while waiting for their hearty husbands to return from the game.

An equally enthusiastic crowd gathered for the I.U.-Purdue classic November 21. Although the game was a heartbreaker for loyal I.U. fans (Purdue won by a field goal, 10-7) spirits were nevertheless high at the law school both before and after the game.

Students were on hand to conduct tours of the building and the ever-loyal Law Wives helped serve at both open houses.

Next fall's Homecoming will be October 22 and another Open House is planned.

Plan now to come!

THREE RECENT ALUMNI NAMED TO JUDICIAL POSTS

Three recent Bloomington Division graduates were elected to city judgeships in their respective communities. Frank Messer, '58, is now city judge in Connersville; Robert W. Roth, '58, is now city judge in Monticello where he has been practicing law since graduation; and Millard M. Morrison, '59, is municipal judge in his hometown of Frankfort where he is engaged in the practice of law with his father.

Bloomington Professor Named Assn. President

Professor Ralph F. Fuchs assumed office as national president of the American Association of University Professors at the Annual Meeting of the Association in Detroit on April 8-9. The Association is composed of 40,000 college and university teachers in all fields of study and deals with matters of general professional concern. Professor Fuchs succeeds Bentley Glass of Johns Hopkins University, a biologist. In 1955-57, while on leave from Indiana University, Mr. Fuchs served on a full-time basis as General Secretary to the Association at its Washington headquarters, and has since been counsel to the organization.

Bloomington Division Faculty Members On the Move

Distinguished Service Professor Jerome Hall will make a lecture tour of South America from June 4 to September 25 of this year. Professor Hall will hold seminars and give lectures on the theory of criminal law, the philosophy and science of law, and comparative law, and also participate in round-table discussions of the above fields of law in which scholars from the various countries visited will be invited to present their views.

The tour is made possible in part by a grant from the Ford Foundation.

Dr. Pedro R. David of Tucuman, Argentina, presently doing graduate work at Indiana University will accompany Professor Hall as his assistant and interpreter.

Professor Ivan Rutledge attended the Conference on Civil Rights held at Notre Dame on February 14, 1960. This conference was called by Dean Joseph O'Meara of the Notre Dame Law School and Congressman John Brademas of the Third District of Indiana. It consisted of law professors from the midwestern universities, Senators and Representatives in Congress and members of state legislatures from the same area (Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, Ohio, and Michigan), and delegates from public and private agencies interested in the problems to be discussed. Most of the time was devoted to legislative proposals to secure the right to vote from discrimination on account of race. Other problems included school and housing discrimination.

Two days later Professor Rutledge participated in the annual joint meeting of the Lincoln, Nebraska, Bar Association and the Lancaster County Medical Society at Lincoln on February 16, 1960. Appearing under the auspices of the Nebraska Heart Association, Professor Rutledge spoke on the relationship between medical testimony and employment of the cardiac patient in industry.

On March 29, Dean Leon H. Wallace presented a paper before a group of engineers of the Pan American Health Organization and the World Health Organization on the "Legal and Political Aspects of Organization of Urban Water Supplies," as a part of a ten-day program sponsored by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare at the Robert A. Taft Engineering Center in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Professor Ralph Fuchs has been granted a leave of absence in 1960-61 to become advisor during that period to the Indian Law Institute, an organization recently established by the Indian Government. The Institute has its headquarters in the Supreme Court building in New Delhi, where it conducts research into Indian legal problems. Thus far its attention has centered largely on constitutional and administrative law. Next fall a research training program will be commenced, with participation by young law teachers from several Indian universities. The Ford Foundation is assisting the Institute and has arranged for Professor Fuchs' assignment at the request of Dr. K. M. Munshi, director of the Institute.

CHRISTIAN HARTKE SENDS GREETINGS FROM LOS ANGELES

Christian Hartke, '14, writes that he would welcome anyone from I.U. visiting in Los Angeles to check in with him. He has been practicing there since the end of World War I in 1918. His office is at 550 South Flower Street.

Professor Ben F. Small will be a visiting Professor of Law at New York University during the Summer Term, 1960. He was reappointed to a four-year term as Commissioner on Uniform State Laws of Indiana by Governor Handley. Also, he was named Chairman of Special Committee on Regulation of Interstate Common Carriers by the National Conference of Commissioners. He was elected to membership this spring in the National Panel of Arbitrators of the American Arbitration Association. Mr. Small became Province VII President of Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity. Two of his articles appear as chapters in three separate books on legal medicine. One article, from the Texas Law, was cited with approval by the Supreme Court of the United States early this spring. He is also the recipient of a grant from the Indiana Heart Association to study the cardiac risk in Indiana Workmen's Compensation cases.

Associate Professor Charles D. Kelso recently had published in the Journal of Legal Education, a book review of the Read-MacDonald Casebook on Legislation. He will be a visiting professor of Law at George Washington University Law School in Washington, D.C. during the Summer Term, 1960. Currently he is doing research on Methods of Legal Education.

Merrill Moores, '53 attorney, joined our part-time instructor ranks, assisting with the course in Contracts. Mr. William R. Forney, Mr. Harold R. Woodard and Mr. Lester M. Ponder are the other members dividing their time between the practice of law and part-time teaching.

Earl Finbar Murphy will return for the Summer Term, 1960, as Visiting Professor in the absence of Daniel R. Mandelker, Associate Professor, who is extending his leave until September in London, England.
