

NEW GREAT SONG

*The Legend
of the Maguire*

*As Sung by the Popular Irish Comedian in his New Success
"The Way to Kenmare," at the Fourteenth Street Theatre
New York*

Published by permission of the Music Hall Publishing Co.
125 West 42nd Street, New York

The Legend of the Maguire.

ANDREW MACK.

Moderato.

In the bright day's of old when our When the wintry storm raged round the dear land was young her prais - es and glor - ies were old Cast - le wall brave knights and fair la - dies were on eve - ry tongue to each breeze her em - er aid held in the thrall of harp - er and bard in the ban - ners were flung the pride of her sons and her big ban - quet hall were pa - tri - ot sons were as - daugh - ters there's a fam - i - ly name we are sem - bled then the toast of Ma - gui - re they all proud to dear the men were as brave as the heard with a thrill to Er - in go bragh they all wom - en were fair their blades ev - er read - y there drank with a will and by the same tok - en that hearts ex-er-stood-y for love and for free-dom we dare, faith still un-bro-ken in this le-vel heart Even still.

Chorus.

Oh for love we have fought and for love we will die and forg

love will up-hold us when dang-er is nigh and the fame of our name sure the land still ad-mires for they fought for their home and for love the Ma-guire.

p. o.