THE SUNBEAM AND THE MOONBEAM

Once in a while you hear a ballad of such charm that you simply can't stop humming it. Note the originality of the lyric, and the haunting harmony, of this one. Special chorus arrangements for male and mixed quartets are included.

Price, Postpaid, 30 Cents.

A sun-beam and a moon-beam met face to face one day;— 'Twas love at sight all thro' the night, Then joined the stars at play.— Soon the sun-beam and the moonbeam were u - ni - ted in Heav-en's blue;— And CHORUS.

In Osh-kosh, b' gosh! That's the town that I was born in. When the times are slack, goin' to hike right back gosh darn clown, goin' to paint the town When I get my wheat and corn in.

Osh - kosh b' - gosh! goin' to wake 'em up some morn-in', Goin' to

OSHKOSH B GOSH

JEFF BRANEN
FREDERICK G. JORDAN

Here is a genuinely funny "hey rube" novelty number that will tickle the most unresponsive funnybone. See if even this fragment of the chorus doesn't remind you of the cows and chickens and take you right back to the farm, by heck!

Price, Postpaid, 30 Cents.
