Moderato

The musical score is written for piano and voice. It begins with a piano introduction in 2/4 time, marked 'Moderato'. The piano part features a melody in the right hand and a supporting bass line in the left hand. The vocal part enters with the lyrics: 'I had a girl, not very / Her eyes were sad, that day we / long a - go, Far a - way on a trop-i - cal shore, I had a / said "Good - bye," When she told me "I know you'll for - get, What love you / girl, out where the ros - es grow, On the road that / had, just like a rose will die," And I thought I'.

The Nation's New Mother Song

MOTHER!—The sweetest word in all the wide world.

The first word a child says, and very often in life—the last.

There have been thousands of songs written about Mother—some of them very pretty—very sweet.

The newest song—the Nation's New Mother Song called:

"THAT DEAR OLD MOTHER OF MINE"

is so entirely different from the rest that it is immediately noticed.

"That Dear Old Mother of Mine" tells the story of a wayward youth who never realized until almost too late who his dearest sweetheart was.

The "dearest sweetheart" was, as we all know—his mother!

The title page of this song is a pantomime. At a glance it tells the entire story. Never was there a story told in picture—without a word that was so clear to the observer.

"That Dear Old Mother of Mine" is an old, old story, but actually told in a new, new way. A different way—a way that will bring smiles and tears to you—a way that will make a better man or woman of anyone.

The melody of this song is equally as sweet as the words. There is a certain something about the air that is as soft as a mother's voice and every one of us knows that softness—and may we all hear it for a long time to come.

This new Nation's Mother Song is now on sale at ALL good music counters and you had better get YOUR copy NOW, as the first edition of many thousands is nearly entirely exhausted.

Herewith we present you with an inkling of what this "Mother" song is really like—and we venture to say—you'll like it.

CHORUS.

I was dream-ing in the ev'-ning of an old sweet-heart, So far a-way, so far a-way I could hear her gen-tly sigh-ing, I could
